THINKING OUT LOUD

By H. M. L.

We are not specially pleased with the bickering that closed the conference of Molotoff, Bevin and Byrnes in London. One reason for disappointment is that the entire session seemed to be occupied with power politics instead of world peace. We want real progress made in the direction of peace and no retrogression, if you please. But on the whole we are glad Byrnes stopped short of any compromise which would add to Russia's formidable power and substract from our formidable power. If we come down to horse trading, at least let us see to it, that the nag we swap for can run a good race.

One of the disturbing things about the present day situation in Europe is, or rather we think it is, is our American short view of the conditions there. We forget that in two world wars, without a shot being fired against us in this land, we have become involved in European war on the long range principle that what effects Europe effects us very vitally. Now that we are sitting down in a European council, having won a place at the board with thousands of lives and billions of cash, quite naturally the people of the U. S. A. having been stung twice do not wish a third stinging.

Let us live as well as we can with a Russia grown truculent in victory, and prideful of its own might, but let us stick to the solid fact that we have at least a 50 per cent interest in European peace, and from an idealistic point of view, still hold that the principle of democracy is more likely to insure peace than that of the socialized state, which at this historical moment, is exactuly Russia's state. With its new imperial trend we think Russia is the one who is doing the drifting nowadays and not us.

If Byrnes sticks to his guns, and is mightily encouraged to do so by congress and the rest of us, something will have to give way, and we definitely think it will be Mr. Molotoff. Either he will be ordered to subside a little, both geographically and diplomatically, or he will give way to some one with broader vision and a greater consideration for Uncle Sam's friendship.

Molotoff in one of his lighter moments, made rather a sad joke, which all Americans, the thoughtful ones at least, can heartily resent. He said in effect that Byrnes had no need to persuade anybody. All he had to do was to hold up a little bomb. In other words we had such a big stick we need not even speak softly. The inference was plainly that all we needed to do was to silently brandish the big stick. He made Uncle Samuel out to be a world bully, and thereby betrays his ignorance. Uncle Sam has never bullied any nation.

There was a time when we took more interest than we should in the politics, the bloody revolutionary politics, of Central Americans than we should. We never could get used to the idea that revolutions were as much a part of Central American life as bull fighting. Nowadays we either let them "revolute", or haul them up before the Pan American Union, and let that body decide what's to be done.

But Molotoff's study of American history, is probably as faulty as ours of Russia. Even if he has been a student of our history, he probably distrusts us, now that we have arms in proportion to our political power. This distrust springs from the fact that it has not happened before in our history. And we match his distrust of us, with out distrusts of Russia.

This brings us to the real reason for our distrust. While all the many facts—and sometimes they are very confusing—regarding American social, political and economic life are available to Mr. Molotoff through our press, we are kept in vast ignorance of Russian affairs in all these departments, save as the Russian government itself grants the information it wishes us to have. Time and again we have been confronted with this mapor fact: The Russian people, not even those in the higher intellectual brackets, have the slightest conception of a free press, which we in this country take as much for granted as the air we breath and the water we drink.

That, in our opinion is the real stumbling block, to understanding between this country and the Russia. Until we are able to convince the Russians that a free press is the only sure foundation for the exercise of political and other freedoms, we shall fail of that harmony in world relations which every American ardently desires. In the meantime, it behooves us to go very slowly and carefully in coming to an agreement with Russia.

SWIM POOL FOR PLACER COLLEGE

Trustees of Placer College have called for bids for the construction of a $60,000 swimming pool November 13. If the contract is awarded at this time, the pool will be ready for use during the second term of the 1945-1946 school year.

Ernest E. Weihe, San Francisco architect, who built the pool at Stanford University, drew the plans and specifications for the 105 by 45 foot pool.

Chlorination and filtering of water is to be provided in the pool's construction and a heating plant will be installed to regulate the temperature, and make it available for use throughout the year.

The call for bids followed a recommendation made by Superintendent Harold E. Chastain after intensive research among the pools of Northern California.

MADELINE HIMES MANAGES HUGE RED CROSS CLUB

Miss Madeline Himes, daughter of Mrs. Grace Himes of this city, in a letter to her mother stated she had been promoted to the managership of Eagle Red Cross Club of Weisbaden, Germany, one of the great spas of that country.

Her staff consists of 240 German nationals supervised by Red Cross personnel, Between 2000 and 8000 American men and women in the occupational forces, are served daily.

Miss Himes was formerly secretary of the district attorney here. She wrote that when she arrived at her new post, saw the long and beautiful colonnades leading to the imposing hotel that houses the club, noted the huge fountains playing in the midst of green lawns, she felt slightly faint. The building in some respects was comparable to the Palace Hotel in San Francisco, she said. "Then wrote Miss Hiimes, "I put on my diplomatic smile, and my brass knuckles and went in and went to work."

SALARIES OF POLICE AND CITY WORKERS RAISED

The Nevada City Council at special meeting voted to raise the salaries of the police force, increasing the salary of chief of police to $190 monthly and of policemen to $180, an average increase of $20 per month.

The council also raised the wages of other city employes from $6.00 per day to $7.00 per day. This affects the city street crew.

Two in Custody for Cashing Bad Checks

Sheriff Dewey Johnson returned here yesterday afternoon with Harold W. Hunt, 21, and Thomas D. Garrett, 25, in custody charged with forging names and endorsements on payroll checks stolen from the Stockton Box Company by whom they were employed.

The pair were apprehended by Chief of Police Ben Jenkins in Grass Valley. They had cashed one check for $222 in Grass Valley, and a second for $200.65 in Nevada City.

APPLE WEEK

Apple Week opens Saturday. It celebrates the supurb apples grown in Nevada County and puts every resident on notice that nowhere in the world are better apples grown than those in the orchards of this county.

Year after year, Nevada County apples, have taken first prizes at the California State Fair.

The resurgence in interest in our apples, coming close on the heels of the war's end, is due in large measure to County Agricultural Commissioner L. G. Lageson, to whom the chambers of commerce of Grass Valley and Nevada City, turned over many of the details of this week's apple celebration. It is he who has brought attention of consumers to the delicious apples grown here, and he who has encouraged farmers to take care of their orchards and plant more apple trees when soil and other conditions warrant it.

Saturday merchants of all lines are making window displays of Nevada County's splendid apples. And as one enthusiast remarked: "To see them is to buy them."

N. C. CHAMBER TO GET REPORT ON CITY AIRPORT

The Nevada City Chamber of Commerce has asked Lieut. Col. Allen Chapman for a report on the municipal airport on Cement Hill. Lieut Col. Chapman is home from the Pacific where he served in the Army Air Force.

The chamber is seeking a means to develope the city's air traffic facilities and desires expert opinion of its present airport capacity, possibilities of future improvement and the cost involved. The board of directors was asked to meet with the Grass Valley chamber's directors to discuss plans for a joint airport.

The president of the chamber, Guerdon Ellis, and the secretary, H. F. Sofge were authorized to attend a meeting of the directors of the Highway 20 (Tahoe to the Sea) Association at Williams October 14. A chicken dinner will be served shortly afternoon, and a discussion of a proposed reorganization of the association will follow. The association discontinued its activities during the war.

DOWNIEVILLE RESIDENT DEAD

DOWNIEVILLE, Oct. 11—Funeral services under the direction of Holmes Funeral Home of Nevada City will be held in the Methodist Church here October 12th at 2 p. m. for Converse James York who died here of a heart attack at 4:45 a. m. Tuesday. Interment will be in the Downieville Cemetery.

The deceased was born in Downieville 73 years ago and spent his entire life in this county, He was well known as a miner. A host of friends regret his passing.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Bessie Belle York, and a brother E. A. York, both of Downieville.

University Women Hear Brig. Gen. Birks

Mrs. Vera Ingram of Grass Valley was hostess last evening to the Nevada County Branch, American Association of University Women.

Miss Maxime Sleeper, president, presided and Miss Gertrude Esterly international relations committee chairman, introduced Brig. Gen. Hammond D. Birks, personnel center commanding officer of Camp Beale, who discussed some aspects of the present situation in Europe.

ASSAYER TO OPEN OFFICE

Harold Scheave has purchased the assay business and equipment of Dr. Hal Draper and as soon as a suitable office can be obtained will open it here.

STAFF SERGEANT TOCCALINI TO VISIT TOKIO

Mr. and Mrs. Baptiste Toccalini have received a letter from their son, S-Sgt. Henry Toccalini written from Tokyo. The letter follows in part:

By the time this letter reaches you I will probably have visited Tokyo. You have also probably wondered as to why you haven't heard from me or you may have guessed.

The last week before leaving Luzon was a hectic one. We were placed on a 72 hour alert one night and that was the signal for a mad rush from then on out. I had to pack everything in the supply room and I had five truck loads of junk. My assistant and I put in some hard working hours for a few days. As usual it was a hurry and wait and we didn't board the LSTs until Sept. 4th.

Life aboard a LST is pretty rough at the best and this trip was none too good. Conditions were crowded, more so than usual and the chow was poor. Water was turned on only twice a day for an hour 6 to 7 in the morning and 7 to 8 in the evenin. In order to take a shower you had to stand in line for an hour. On the third day out we ran into a storm and the sea was rogh. I of course got sea sick and the remainder of the voyage was a night mare for me, didn't even get up and go to chow for three days until the sea calmed a bit. I didn't lose any of my meals but that was probably due to the fact that I had nothing in my stomach to lose. All in all it wasn't a very pleasant trip and I was certainly glad when we finally sighted land.

We got off the ship last night and are housed in a large warehouse temporarily until our area is ready for us.

Understand we are to be in buildings and I hope it's true.

We are on the outskirts of Tokyo and I haven't had an opportunity to go sight seeing yet, from the roof of this building one can get a good view and the effect of our bombings it can be plainly seen. Certain small areas are pretty much damaged and windows in the buildings left untouched by bombs have been broken. What few Japanese I have seen do not display much emotion and as a general rule appear unconcerned. Practically all I have seen are wearing some army clothing and I imagine have been just released from the army.

Those in the immediate area are busily engaged in tearing down their bomb shelters and salvaging the lumber. Every home had one and they were rather close together. I rather imagine they were used quite a number of times.

They don't seem to be suffering from starvation although they are not too well clothed. The women are rather plump and wear slacks and wooden shoes. The children are no different from any other country and from them has come the only sign of friendliness.

I imagine before long the situation here will have a tendency to relax as it did in Germany.

Radio broadcast the other night said the army expected to release 6 million men by July 1st. I still think I'll be on my way by February with a good chance of it being sooner.

Will close for tonight, Love, Hen.

Navy Man, Missing Four Years, Phones Home

In a long distance phone call to Cecil Hooper of Grass Valley yesterday Thomas Kerich, the first Grass Valley boy reported missing in World War II, announced he had arrived in Seattle, Washington, was alive and well after almost four years in Jap prison camps, and was coming home as soon as he could get his discharge.

Kerich before entering the U. S. Navy was employed by Hooper in a Grass Valley service station. He entered the navy some months before Pearl Harbor and the last letters received from him came in November, 1941, and were written from Cavite, naval base in Manila Bay. Kerich's mother, Katherine B. Gordon, formerly resided in Grass Valley and is now in Arizona.

In his telephone message to Hooper, Kerich said that he expected to arrive in Grass Valley within a few days.

Truck Driver With Slashed Throat Recovering

Grant L. Taylor, truck driver, is recovering from loss of blood in the Jones Memorial Hospital, resulting from slashes in his throat made with a razor blade .

Tyler, who is a resident of the Commercial Hotel in Grass Valley, was visiting Violet Wilson in her room in the hotel, according to the story told police by both of them. The two had been drinking during the afternoon, they related, and returned to the hotel to Tyler's room, where she, not feeling well, lay down to rest. She told the police that he went to his bureau and presently gave an exclamation. She was horrified to see him bleeding from cuts in his throat.

Tyler told the police he was trying to shave while intoxicated and that the slashes were not made with the suicidal intent. The police found them in the lobby of the hotel, Tyler still bleeding profusely, and Violet trying to staunch his wounds. He had attempted to telephone a doctor but had collapsed on the floor.

Welcome for New Pastor and Family

Members of the Methodist Church and friends gave the new pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. Joseph W. Moore, an informal welcome Tuesday evening in the social room of the church. A potluck supper was served.

The event coincided with the first quarterly conference of the church year, and District Superintendent Rev. Elliott L. Fisher of Sacramento presided.

Frank G. Finnegan, chairman of the War Chest drive, presented a sound film, The Yanks Are Coming.

Grass Valley Man Claims Wife Was Kidnaped

Richard Bloomdale for whose arrest on a charge of kidnaping was issued three weeks ago, was taken into custody by Chief of Police Ben Jenkins Tuesday in Grass Valley and is now lodged in the county jail.

Bloomdale was arrested on the complaint of Matt O. Jens, who declared that he had kidnaped his wife and had taken her to Sacramento. Mrs. Jens has returned to Grass Valley and has indicated that she left Grass Valley of her own accord to meet Bloomdale in Sacramento.

Movies Every Night But Tuesday

The Nevada Theatre, which has been operating on a four times a week schedule during the past three years, with two picture changes, yesterday began a schedule of a show every night in the week, save Tuesday, with three changes a week.

RECEPTION FOR BRIDAL PAIR

A wedding reception was held at the home of Mrs. A. Morateur, 223 South Church Street on the evening of October 6th for Mr. and Mrs. George H. Goeller, who had been married earlier in the day in Reno.

The bride is the former Miss June M. Denny, a nurse at the Nevada County Hospital and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Goeller of Cedar Ridge on the Colfax Road. More than a hundred friends gathered to wish the couple happiness. A beautiful wedding cake was cut and served the guests.

HORSES, MULE, COW KILLED ON MABEN RANCH

James R. Maben, farmer and stock raiser of the Cottage Hill district, reported to the sheriff's office that during the night two big draft horses, perfectly matched, a large mule, and a cow, had all been shot through the head on his ranch.

The two draft horses belonged it was stated, to a Placer County horse breeder, Ralph Aitken of Rocklin. They were valued at $400 each. It is surmised that the animals were killed by spot light hunters.

Game Warden Earl Hiscox is investigating the killing of a doe in the same vicinity, also shot through the head. The body had been dressed out and the head, entrails and hide left beside the road.

DEER HUNTER LOST FOUR DAYS

Deputy Sheriff George DeSoto, accompanied by Ranger Max Williams, and two Tahoe National Forest Employes, William Martin and James A. Moore, were searching the country north of Cold Springs Camp Ground 6 miles east of Cisco on Highway 40 yesterday for a lost deer hunter. Commodore F. Wolfe, of Yountville, Napa County.

So far as known Wolfe, a rancher, aged 51, was hunting deer alone, and was reported missing on Saturday. Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen drove to Big Bend Saturday evening but received later reports that Wolfe was not lost or at least was not in danger. Yesterday afternoon, however, he was again reported missing and an organized search was undertaken. The name "Commodore" is Wolfe's given name. He is not in the navy.

A report from the sheriff's office and the Tahoe National Forest this morning stated the man has not yet been found.

Convalescent Soldier Are Dinner Guests

The Red Cross Canteen and the Gray Ladies Corps were hostesses Tuesday evening to 25 convalescent service men from DeWitt General Hospital at dinner in the Episcopal Parish House, Grass Valley.

Every Tuesday evening patients from the army hospital are bronght to Grass Valley and given a party. Miss Dorothy Webb, aided by Mrs. Lavinia Hunt and Miss Sally Dyar, Red Cross recreational workers are in charge of the program. Roast beef was the chief item on the menu.

Two Sentenced to 90 Days for Calf Theft

Woodrow W. Kistle and Millard Hurst, residents of Murchie Road two miles east of this city, were Tuesday sentenced to 90 days in jail following their plea of guilty last week to stealing and killing a calf belonging to Mrs. Esterina Rinaldi. The two were also required to pay Mrs. Rinaldi $25 for her calf.

Suit Against Grass Valley is Postponed

Attorneys E. Vayne Miller and Arthur DeBeau Carr of Sacramento have requested that their suit filed for $22,500 against the city of Grass Valley on behalf Thomas O'Dea, be dropped temporarily from the calendar. It was to have been tried Monday. The postponement was asked in a letter to William Cassettari, Grass Valley city attorney.

O'Dea brought suit as a result of his arrest and incarceration in Grass Valley last November. He was charged with resisting an officer and subsequently acquitted.

FARM HOME BAZAAR

A baraar will be held in the Rough and Ready Hall tomorrow under the sponsorship of the Rough and Ready and Penn Valley Farm Home Departments.

The bazaar will open at noon and continue through the afternoon and evening. Hand made linens, fresh and canned fruits and other commoditities will be offered for sale.

Word comes from Fort Lewis, Wash., that William F. Bryant has recently received an honorable discharge from the army. His home address is Willow Valley Road, Nevada City.
